

Report on experiment MX1185: Online microspectrophotometry: structural basis for lightinduced switching in photochromic fluorescent proteins.

This proposal could not be conducted because our lasers did not match the new safety regulations of the ESRF. We have purchased new lasers that are now compatible with the beamline interlock system.